About the Speakers

Geri Green, Esq. is a certified mediator, arbitrator, and referee with ADR Services, Inc., highly skilled and experienced in both facilitative and evaluative dispute resolution styles. She provides face-to-face, virtual, and asynchronistic neutral services, specializing in complex high-conflict matters, with expertise in cross-cultural and cross-border disputes. In addition to three decades of courtroom experience, she has extensive training in crisis intervention, trauma, restorative justice, cross-cultural competence, and harm reduction, and is also a scholar of evidence and international law. As an ADR professional, she has drawn upon her courtroom experience, academic background, and extensive training, along with her real-world business proficiency, to successfully resolve over 500 disputes. Ms. Green is known for her attentiveness to detail and her ability to break down complex legal issues and highly charged matters into manageable pieces.

Steven A. Block, Esq. is a highly experienced mediator, arbitrator, special master, and referee. Since 2003, he has handled hundreds of disputes as a neutral spanning the full spectrum of civil litigation, including business, partition matters, employment law, family law, products liability, personal injury, medical malpractice, real estate, partnership dissolutions, premises liability, and uninsured motorist claims. Prior to joining ADR Services, Inc., Mr. Block spent 43 years as a trial lawyer and civil litigator. Through his extensive trial and dispute resolution experience, Mr. Block has developed a broad working knowledge of the complex issues that often present in ADR proceedings. He draws upon his intimate understanding of the challenges, risks, and benefits associated with trial in order to present the parties at mediation with realistic and cost-effective alternatives. His down-to-earth demeanor and legal acumen have earned him the respect of counsel and clients alike, leading to the resolution of numerous disputes.
