WHAT YOU NEED TO KNOW ABOUT CONSERVATORSHIP LAW

1 hour participatory MCLE credit
No-cost, free event

Program Description

High profile cases have brought conservatorship law back to the forefront of public attention. Despite this, they remain an area of law poorly understood except by those who practice regularly in the area. There are good reasons to be concerned. Conservatorship law gives private citizens and government entities power to control the lives of others that is unparalleled except in criminal law.

Even though conservatorships are "protective" of the disabled, they also have consequences. What are the limits on those powers? What rights do people have, when they face conservatorship proceedings? Are there really adequate protections for our aging and disabled population against abuse? Attorney Matthew D. Kanin, an experienced conservatorship litigation attorney, will discuss these and other topics of interest to any individual who is curious about this area of law, as well as attorneys who might be interested in entering the field.

About the Speaker

Matthew D. Kanin is of counsel at Greenspoon Marder LLP, concentrating in trust and estate administration, and litigation, including conservatorships. He is certified by the State Bar of California, Board of Legal Specialization, specialist in estate planning, trust and probate law. Mr. Kanin serves on the Trusts & Estates Executive Committee of the LA County Bar Association, and the board of the Woodland Hills Tax & Estate Planning Counsel. Since 2014, he has served on the "Court Appointed Counsel" panel of the Los Angeles Superior Court, and has appeared on behalf of no less than 90 clients in conservatorship proceedings by appointment of the Court in that time. Mr. Kanin is also a contributor to the CEB Practitioner Estate Planning series. Mr. Kanin is a third-generation California attorney.
